MARKET WATCH—In another sign of the strength of the market in 2015, the New York Building Congress released a report that found the city’s buildings department authorized construction of 56,528 residential units across 1,998 buildings last year, a nearly 180 percent increase from the prior year. It was the sixth straight year of growth in residential permits. Read the full report here: <http://bit.ly/1QGx1xH>
